

Terms of Service for Kid Court

Effective date: August 3, 2026

Last updated: August 3, 2026

These Terms of Service ("Terms") are an agreement between Cubicle #6 LLC ("Kid Court," "we," "us," or "our") and the adult who downloads, purchases, or permits use of the Kid Court mobile application (the "App").

By downloading, purchasing, accessing, or allowing a child to use the App, you agree to these Terms. If you do not agree, do not use the App.

For an App obtained through Apple's App Store, Apple's Standard Licensed Application End User License Agreement (the "Apple Standard EULA") also applies and is incorporated into these Terms. If these Terms conflict with the Apple Standard EULA, the Apple Standard EULA controls to the extent of the conflict.

1. Adults, children, and supervision

You must be legally capable of entering into a contract to accept these Terms. A child may use the App only with the permission and supervision of a parent or legal guardian. The adult accepting these Terms is responsible for the child's use of the App, reviewing the Privacy Policy, managing device permissions, and deciding whether the App's suggestions are appropriate for the family.

The App is designed for ordinary disagreements between children. It is not intended to replace attentive adult supervision.

2. What Kid Court provides

The App lets two children present short spoken arguments. Speech recognition turns the arguments into text, and an artificial-intelligence service generates a child-friendly ruling and suggested next steps. The App may read the ruling aloud and may keep a limited number of decided cases on the device.

The App may offer settings that reflect different decision and parenting approaches. These are communication preferences, not professional advice or endorsements of any person, organization, publication, or parenting method.

3. Important safety and AI limitations

Judge Hoot is a fictional AI character. Kid Court is not a court, mediator, lawyer, therapist, counsellor, doctor, healthcare provider, social worker, child-protection service, or emergency service. The App does not provide legal, medical, mental-health, parenting, safeguarding, or other professional advice.

AI-generated content can be incomplete, inaccurate, inconsistent, biased, or inappropriate. The App may misunderstand speech or context. You must use independent judgment and adult supervision. You are responsible for deciding whether to follow, change, or ignore a ruling.

Do not use the App to handle an emergency or suspected abuse, neglect, coercion, sexual conduct involving a child, self-harm, suicidal thoughts, serious bullying, threats, weapons, serious violence, or an injury needing care. Contact a trusted adult and the appropriate local emergency, medical, child-protection, school, or law-enforcement service.

The App includes a safety handoff intended to direct some concerning cases to a grown-up, but automated safeguards may miss a concern or activate incorrectly. Never rely on the App to detect danger or make a safety decision.

4. Privacy and appropriate input

Our Privacy Policy, available at <https://productsnotpowerpoints.com/tkc/Privacy>, explains how the App handles information and is part of these Terms.

Do not ask a child to disclose information that is unnecessary for the disagreement. Users should not speak full names, home or school addresses, contact details, passwords, financial information, medical records, or other highly sensitive information into the App.

You represent that you have the authority and any consent required by law to permit the App to process information you or a child provides.

5. Free use and subscriptions

The App currently includes three completed cases without charge. After those cases are used, an optional auto-renewing subscription may be required to start additional cases. An active subscription provides access to unlimited cases, subject to fair use, technical availability, and these Terms.

The subscription's price, currency, billing period, and any trial or promotional terms are displayed in the App Store purchase sheet before purchase and may vary by country or region. Payment is charged to the Apple Account used to confirm the purchase. The subscription renews automatically for the same period unless it is cancelled through Apple before renewal. Deleting the App does not cancel a subscription.

You can manage or cancel the subscription in the Apple Account subscription settings. Access continues through the end of the paid billing period after cancellation unless Apple provides otherwise. Refund requests and billing disputes are handled under Apple's applicable policies. The App includes a restore-purchases function where provided by Apple.

We may change subscription prices or features in accordance with applicable law and Apple's rules. Apple provides any notice or consent flow required for a price change. If we discontinue a paid service, we will honor access for the remaining paid period or provide another remedy where required by law.

6. License and acceptable use

Subject to these Terms and the Apple Standard EULA, we grant you a limited, personal, non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable license to use the App on Apple-branded products you own or control, as permitted by Apple's usage rules and Family Sharing rules where applicable.

You may not:

- copy, sell, rent, sublicense, distribute, or commercially exploit the App except as applicable law expressly permits;
- reverse engineer, decompile, disassemble, or attempt to extract source code except where applicable law expressly permits;
- bypass a paywall, security measure, parental gate, case limit, or access control;
- use automated means to overload, scrape, probe, or disrupt the App or its service providers;
- use the App to harass, threaten, exploit, groom, shame, discriminate against, or harm a child or anyone else;
- submit unlawful content or content that infringes another person's rights;
- misrepresent an AI ruling as a decision of a real court or qualified professional; or
- use the App in violation of law, these Terms, or a third-party service's applicable terms.

7. Your content

You retain any rights you have in the words submitted through the App. You grant us a limited, worldwide license to process that content only as needed to operate, secure, and support the App, comply with law, and enforce these Terms. This license ends when the content is no longer needed for those purposes, subject to the retention described in the Privacy Policy.

You are responsible for content submitted through your device and for having any rights or permissions needed to submit it.

8. Our intellectual property

The App, Judge Hoot, artwork, software, designs, text, sounds, trademarks, and other materials supplied by us are owned by us or our licensors and are protected by intellectual-property laws. Except for the limited license in Section 6, no rights are granted to you.

Feedback may be used by us without restriction or compensation, provided we do not publicly identify you or a child without permission.

9. Third-party services

The App relies on services supplied by Apple, OpenAI, and RevenueCat. Their services may be governed by their own terms and privacy notices. We are not responsible for third-party services to the extent permitted by law, and availability of the App may be affected by their outages, changes, or discontinuation.

Apple is not responsible for maintaining or supporting the App. To the extent the Apple Standard EULA or applicable law provides, Apple may have obligations relating to refunds if the App fails to conform to an applicable warranty.

10. Changes, availability, and termination

We may update, change, suspend, or discontinue all or part of the App to improve it, maintain security, comply with law, or address service availability. We do not promise that the App will always be available, uninterrupted, secure, or error-free.

We may suspend or terminate access if you materially or repeatedly violate these Terms, use the App in a way that risks harm, or if required by law. Sections that by their nature should survive termination-including intellectual property, disclaimers, liability limits, and dispute terms-will survive.

11. Disclaimers

To the maximum extent permitted by law, the App is provided "as is" and "as available." We disclaim all implied warranties, including merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, accuracy, quiet enjoyment, and non-infringement. We do not warrant that any ruling or suggestion will be correct, fair, safe, effective, or suitable for a particular child, family, or situation.

Nothing in these Terms excludes warranties or rights that cannot lawfully be excluded, including mandatory consumer rights.

12. Limitation of liability

To the maximum extent permitted by law, Cubicle #6 LLC and its officers, employees, contractors, and licensors will not be liable for indirect, incidental, special, consequential, exemplary, or punitive damages, loss of data, emotional distress, family conflict, personal injury, or loss of profits arising from or related to the App.

To the maximum extent permitted by law, our total liability for all claims relating to the App will not exceed the greater of (a) the amount you paid for the App during the 12 months before the event giving rise to the claim or (b) US$50.

These limitations do not apply to liability that cannot be limited or excluded by law, including where applicable liability for fraud, willful misconduct, gross negligence, death, or personal injury caused by negligence.

13. Indemnity

To the extent permitted by law, you agree to indemnify and hold Cubicle #6 LLC harmless from third-party claims, losses, and reasonable costs arising from your unlawful misuse of the App, your violation of these Terms, or content you submit without the necessary rights or permissions. This section does not apply where prohibited by consumer law.

14. Governing law and disputes

These Terms are governed by the laws of Israel, without regard to conflict-of-law rules. The competent courts of Israel will have jurisdiction, except that applicable consumer law may entitle you to bring a claim in your place of residence or may provide other mandatory rights.

Before filing a formal claim, please contact charles@productsnotpowerpoints.com and briefly describe the issue so we can try to resolve it informally. Nothing in this section prevents either party from seeking urgent injunctive relief or using a small-claims process where eligible.

15. Apple terms

You and we acknowledge that these Terms are between you and us, not Apple, and that we are responsible for the App and its content. We, not Apple, are responsible for addressing claims relating to the App, including product-liability, regulatory, consumer-protection, privacy, and intellectual-property claims, except as otherwise required by law.

You represent that you are not located in a country subject to a United States government embargo and are not listed on a United States government prohibited or restricted-party list.

Apple and its subsidiaries are third-party beneficiaries of these Terms and may enforce the Apple-related provisions against you upon your acceptance of these Terms.

16. General terms

If a provision is found unenforceable, it will be modified only as much as needed or severed, and the remaining provisions will continue. Our failure to enforce a provision is not a waiver. You may not assign these Terms without our consent; we may assign them as part of a merger, acquisition, reorganization, or sale of the App, subject to applicable law. These Terms, the Privacy Policy, the Apple Standard EULA, and purchase terms shown by Apple form the entire agreement concerning the App.

We may update these Terms. If a change is material, we will provide notice where required. Continued use after the effective date of revised Terms means acceptance to the extent allowed by law; when fresh consent is legally required, we will request it.
